NDSS Registrant Card (Lifelong)

The National Diabetes Services Scheme (NDSS) delivers subsidised products, information and support services to people with diabetes across Australia. The Scheme started in 1987 and is funded by the Australian Government. Diabetes Australia administers the Scheme on behalf of the Government.

People who are registered with the NDSS can access a range of products to assist in their diabetes management including:

- Subsidised testing strips for checking blood glucose levels
- Free insulin syringes and pen needles
- Free and subsidised diabetes-related syringes and needles
- A range of information services and support.

Women diagnosed with gestational diabetes are eligible to register with the NDSS on the Gestational Diabetes Register.

It is free to register with the NDSS and only needs to be done once.

How Can I Access NDSS Products?

Without the NDSS, accessing the vital products you need to manage your diabetes can be complicated and costly. The NDSS approved product list makes it simple and easy, and accessing significantly discounted products makes the scheme very cost-effective. Mail and phone orders are dispatched within 48 hours and delivered to your door.

There are five ways to purchase:

- From the Diabetes WA stores in Subiaco or Belmont.
- Through our online shop 24 hours a day.
- From your local Access Point – there are over 480 Access Points across WA.
- By mail.
- By phone. Place your order by calling 1300 136 588
